A SUMMER OF OUTREACH

The Cannabis Museum staff were on the road this summer, teaching festival visitors at Comfest (<https://www.comfest.com/>) and The Ohio Pawpaw Festival (<https://www.ohiopawpawfest.com/>) about the museum and the historical use of cannabis in American medicine and industry prior to prohibition. Comfest was particularly busy, with hundreds of visitors to the booth daily. Staff fielded lots of questions about hemp because of changes to Ohio law for hemp production that were enacted this year. Watch here for announcements about events we're doing in 2020.

THE FIRST GOLDEN AGE OF CANNABIS MEDICINES, 1830 – 1937

Our first exhibit features 18 photographs that document the widely accepted use of Cannabis medicines in American apothecaries and pharmacies prior to its banishment in 1937. Herbal cannabis and cannabis extracts were in common use for the same indications modern research is confirming them effective today.

The photographs and accompanying descriptions explain concepts such as cannabidiol (CBD) and tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), toxicity, decarboxylation, tincturing and concentrates. These images tell the specific stories for each preparation in an historically accurate and emotionally neutral presentation.

THE CANNABIS MUSEUM EDUCATES THE PUBLIC ON THE HIDDEN PRIOR MAINSTREAM USE OF CANNABIS PRIOR TO ITS PROHIBITION IN 1937.

Welcome to the Cannabis Museum. We document and present the hidden history of the mainstream use of Cannabis. Prior to its ban in 1937, for political reasons only, cannabis had 25,000 uses in commerce: food, fuel, fiber and medicine.

We create fine photography and extensive educational materials designed to inform the public to the use of Cannabis prior to its prohibition in 1937. We sell our art to dispensaries, medical offices, collectors and museums worldwide. Access to the collection is made available to researchers from around the globe. We are currently working to make more of our materials available online.

We support our work by the sale of high quality photographic images on a variety of archival substrates, complimented by contemporary designs and quality custom framing. The museum also designs free standing artifact collections for public interaction. These are site specific and custom made for a wide variety of clients. We continue to receive critical acclaim for the artifact displays we design for award-winning dispensary and medical offices interiors.

The Cannabis Museum is an Ohio 501(c)(3) educational and research nonprofit organization, dedicated to revealing the history of mainstream cannabis use in the United States and around the world. It collects, preserves, and shares the history of cannabis use, culture, prohibition, and politics.
